

Publishers Notes

Residential Homes of America (RHA) is this months feature story and for more than just there building. After I had the nomination for RHA as a cover I set up the meeting to discuss the process of putting the magazine together and to get a little feedback in person as to what kind of builder they are and what kind of company they are. I arrive at there office and it is on the 3rd floor of a nice sized office building which usually not typical of the builders that I meet we are usually in a model or a home office. The receptionist greets me and shows me into a nice conference room and tells me that Jim Wells will be right me, as I am waiting I notice awards on the wall from St. Jude for being there Dream home builder in the Chicago area this peaked my interest since I am familiar with St. Jude and the Dream Home program they have. A few minutes go by and Jim enters the room for the meeting and we sit down and begin to discuss the magazine for about 3 minutes it seemed then we spent about another 45 minutes talking about what they have done for St. Jude.

I have met builders and other business, or people who do things for various charities which are wonderful, but I have to say that the excitement and passion for what RHA does for St. Jude was easily noticed when talking to Jim. RHA aside from building several homes a year mange's to stay very involved with St. Jude and I was lucky enough to attend a 4 Stars benefit that St. Jude has every year and I must say what you see and hear at an event like that will move you especially if you have children as I do.

Thank god for St. Jude and for companies like RHA who give so generously with both time and money.
